Why Not Stay Away?

It is apparent that until Washington admits that a continuing cold war has followed the armistices of World War II and the Korean War and acts accordingly, there will continue to be "incidents" involving U.S. personnel, planes and vessels. The way to act during a war is simply to act as if a war is on. Nothing hard about that.

A U. S. Navy plane was shot down practically on the coast of Russia's Siberia, all the way across the Sea of Japan from Japan itself. Washington is properly disturbed; American citizens are resentful. There were immediate arguments about whether the American ship or the Russian planes fired first; such disputes are inevitable.

In theory the U.S. plane, beyond a 12-mile distance from shore, was in international and free space. In theory, U.S. surface and air craft have a legal right to patrol close to Russian territory.

Yet this is an era marked by grim realities, hysterical tensions, and embattled status quo even if war flags are not flying.

The Communists of China, Russia, Czechoslovakia, East Germany etc. are trigger-happy. A few weeks ago, six american soldiers in West Germany, well familiar with border tensions and prior incidents, deliberately went to or perhaps over the border of Czechoslovakia and were taken captive. Time after time, U.S. military planes, normally navigated precisely, have strangely wandered off their courses over Communist-held countries and have been fired

What would our own alert military do if a Communist plane, war vessel or submarine were found just off our Pacific or Atlantic coast? Hundreds of American military personnel served as pilots, mechanics, intelligence agents and war "advisers" with the French during the Indochina war, and Washington would have had a diplomatic hemorrhage if an atom bomb had fallen on them.

The Communists are blood-thirsty, violently aggressive, feverish for war. Whatever our legislatic and theoretical innocence, there's a war on, even if ostensibly a cold one. Common sense reminds that our military invite trouble by going into war-tense areas.

Fall Fragility

gility sets in.

Reports from football training camps are the same as reports from baseball training camps. There is an abundance of fine-looking material-stalwarts who can run to the right or left, bear up bravely under pressure and go for the limit when the chips are down. But no sooner does the rough work start than fra-

The stellar performers are not shatter-proof. They bend and buckle. Their bones break and splinter. They come apart easily at all the critical joints. They have aches and pains too numerous to mention.

They are spavined, and they suck air. It takes 100 yards of adhesive tape to hold them together while they do or die. Rubbing compound is shipped in by the carload. The busiest specialist on the project is the trainer, and the team doctor knows more about the season's prospects than the head coach.

One wonders sometimes how the boys pull themselves together long enough to play out their schedules. Fall fragility is no worse than spring fragility, but it's no better either. Are athletes really getting more brittle, or is it only the result of learning that an injured athlete is news whereas an athlete with no complaints isn't even worth honorable mention unless he does something heroic?

Educated Guessers

There are somber undertones among members of the American Meteorological Society meeting in Columbus this week. They never have been more soberly aware of the hazards of educated guesswork.

Thousands of boats were smashed and swamped along the Atlantic Coast northward from Massachusetts and Connecticut and more than 50 lives were lost when "Hurricane Carol" changed its course and roared inland instead of blowing out to sea. Much of the damage could have been averted if the official opinions of the U.S. Weather Bureau had stressed the impending danger instead of minimizing it.

A congressional investigation is being asked for to determne what caused meteorologists to err in their educated guesswork about "Hurricane Carol." But perhaps what is needed more than a congressional investigation is some soulsearching about the imitations of expertness in general,

Men have a far greater need for knowing than they have ability to learn what they need to know. Experts remain fallible, even when they are tempted to pretend to be otherwise, which is oftener than is good for their souls or the public safety. Weathermen have opinions about the weathes; they cannot control it.

It is too often con used with spastic colon, which is commonly characterized with alternate periods of diarrhea and constipation.

What causes true constipation? Improper training and neglect, especially in childhood, appear to have a great deal to do with it. Failure to set aside a regular time of day for bowel movement is undoubtedly the cause of much trou-

Poor diet can and often does cause constipation. Too many people gulp their food down without allowing enough time for their meals. Some foods are so highly refined they do not contain the bulk necessary at times.

Fresh fruits and vegetables may make up an insufficient part of the diet. These foods not only supply a large part of the bulk in the diet but also aid the wavelike movement of the intestine which carry the contents down through the intestinal tract.

The abuse of laxatives or cathartics is another great cause of constipation. The mistaken idea is common that if a person cleans himself out once a week with a good strong purge it will be good. This distrubs the normal rhythm of bowel evacuation-

Clonkingham, a deputy chief of the HCB (Hurricane Christening Bureau) of the Government Weather Bureau Hurricane Spotting, Indexing and Supervision administration was in disgrace. He had been stripped of his service bars and his good conduct medal. Now he was being "drummed out" of camp There could be no forgiveness: Clonkingham had NAMED A HURRICANE AFTER A MAN!

Now the HCB was getting into swing again, the tension having eased, and the top boss said, "Men, we're expecting a new blow, What will we name this one?"

"Diana" chirped someone.

"We finished with the D's when Dolly came along following Carol,' said the chief, "This windstorm must begin with 'E.' '

"Emily! . . . E'oise! . . . Edith! . . . Eva!" came suggestions.

"That's it ... EVA!" said the chief gleefully. "A perfect name for a 1954 hurricane. I can see the headlines "Little Eva Socks Coast." Well, that gets us down to " in the alphabetical big winds. I've chosen the name Fannie for this baby... It will knock 'em flat. This brings us to a 'G' hurricane."

"Why name these storms after women?" demanded an HCB man bolder than the rest. "It is like naming earthquakes after FLOWERS. Or volcanic eruptions after birds and bees. A total of 44 runs was scored on only 40 hits last night in the city softball playoffs at Kelley Field as one of the most exciting games in recent weeks highlighted action. Butler Grange, rapidly turning into the "Cinderella Team" of the playoffs, staged a 5-run rally in the last inning to edge Salem Tool 9-8. Georgetown moved to within one game of capturing the Girls' playoffs by downing the Red Caps 9-5 while, in "A" results, the Old Timers managed to even their series with Electric Furnace with a 7-6 triumph.
